

Access Control

The temporary or permanent exclusion of animals, people, vehicles, and/or equipment from an area. For a complete version of the national practice standard, see web site HTTP://EFOTG.SC.EGOV.USDA.GOV/REFERENCES/PUBLIC/NE/NE472.PDF

Purpose

Achieve and maintain desired resource conditions by monitoring and managing the intensity of use by animals, people, vehicles, and/or equipment in coordination with the application schedule of practices, measures and activities specified in the conservation plan.

Where Used

This practice applies on all land uses.

Conservation Management System

Use-regulating activities (e.g., posting of signs, patrolling, gates, fences, other barriers, and permitting) are integrated in the conservation management system to facilitate orderly and proper use (timing and intensity) of the area including mitigating associated resource concerns to acceptable levels during their installation, operation, and maintenance.

Figure 2. Poorly timed use of vehicles can accelerate sheet, rill, and concentrated flow erosion on access roads and trails.

Each activity or measure identifies the entity to be monitored and regulated animals, (people, pests, vehicles and equipment) and specifies the intent, intensity, amounts, and timing of use by that entity. Activities may involve temporary to permanent exclusion of one to all entities. Access Control may cover an entire ownership or planning unit consisting of multiple fields or conservation management units. For some activities, implementation may occur immediately, e.g., patrolling.
